Re: manufacturing the pipe outlets by T-drill method

Dear Sirs,

The RS Head Office has no objections to the proposed T-drill method, which may be used in manufacturing Class I, II and III piping systems subject to supervision of the RS. Russian Maritime Register of Shipping does not regulate the procedure of the pipe outlets forming, so a type approval is not necessary in this case. When piping for ship built to the RS Class is manufactured, the procedure of forming the pipe outlets by T-drill method and the welding procedure should be agreed with the RS Representative by each of the manufacturers.

Best regards,
 V.I. Evenko,
 Vice-General Director
